PRoPL US History Pilot Overview

During the winter Interim 2 and spring Interim 3 testing windows, Pearson will offer a pilot of a new Social Studies assessment at the elementary (4-5), middle school (6-8), and high school (9-12) grade bands. Currently the assessment covers U.S. History, with expansion of the assessment to include Civics, Economics, and World History planned for the 2025-2026 academic year.

Within each grade band there are two test options, depending on whether a year-long class covers half or all of US History:

- For classes that cover the first half of US History over one year at the elementary or middle school level, there is a form that covers the colonial period through the Early Republic.
- For classes that cover the second half of US History over one year at the high school level, there is a form that covers Industrialization and Expansion through the 1920s.
- For classes that cover all of US History over one year at all grade levels, there is a form that covers the colonial period through Reconstruction.

The test in the Interim 3 window may include items that review content from Interim 2 and will cover additional topics in US History through the end of the Cold War. More recent topics in US History will be added for the 2025-2026 academic year.

Educators can select the assessment scope that best fits the teaching scope of individual schools and districts.

US History Score Reporting Information

Students will receive a score that represents the percentage of test items they answered correctly.
