PRoPL US History Pilot Overview

During the winter Interim 2 and spring Interim 3 testing windows, Pearson will offer a pilot of a new Social Studies assessment at the elementary (4-5), middle school (6-8), and high school (9-12) grade bands. Currently the assessment covers U.S. History, with expansion of the assessment to include Civics, Economics, and World History planned for the 2025-2026 academic year.

Within each grade band there are two options, depending on whether a year-long class covers half or all of US History:

- For classes that cover the first half of US History over one year at the elementary or middle school level, there is a form that covers the colonial period through the Early Republic.
- For classes that cover the second half of US History over one year at the high school level, there is a form that covers Industrialization and Expansion through the 1920s.
- For classes that cover all of US History over one year at all grade levels, there is a form that covers the colonial period through Reconstruction.

The test in the Interim 3 window may include items that review content from Interim 2 and will cover additional topics in US History through the end of the Cold War. More recent topics in US History will be added for the 2025-2026 academic year.

Educators can select the assessment scope that best fits the teaching scope of individual schools and districts.

Administering the test in ADAM

To administer the US History test that best aligns with the school's teaching scope and sequence, create roster groups under the administration title that matches the selected US History Era. For example, if you are an Elementary School administrator of teachers that covered US History through Early Republic, you would create roster groups in the administration titled US History through Early Republic.

School administrators will select Test Management > Administrations on the left side of the ADAM window. Next, select the administration that best aligns with the content covered by the school. Once proctor groups have been created, students may sign in as they do for Math and Reading tests using the Test Code, Name, and student identifier.

Test can be delivered from December 11th through February 21st. Student results will be available in ADAM within a few minutes of students submitting the test. Student must answer all questions to receive a score, so please encourage students to take their best guess rather than not answering a question.
